

ReadMeViz

1.How to run visualization

To run our visualization, just open the index.html file.

2. How to use this visualization

At the left of the website, you can see three button to choose what kind of job you have. Below those button, you can input your family funding and the percentage of salary you will save to buy the home.

After that, you will see a curve below shows the total money you will have to buy the home with the increasing of time.

At the right of the website, you can see a map of Beijing, after you move mouse to the specific district of Beijing, it will show the district name. average home price and the average year you will cost to buy it.

If you want to see more information of specific neighborhoods, you can click the district you like and the location of neighborhoods will show on the maps. Move mouse on one neighborhood, you can see neighborhood name and the year you need to cost.